Approaches to Stroke Reduction in Atrial Fibrillation

Saturday, Oct. 21, 2017

INTRODUCTION

During this program, national leaders will provide leading-edge medical education on strategies to reduce stroke. Attendees should include cardiologists, neurologists, internists, primary care physicians and other practicing physicians who treat patients with atrial fibrillation.

Objectives

At the conclusion of this activity, learners should be able to:

- describe the underuse of anticoagulation in atrial fibrillation
- review anticoagulation strategies in atrial fibrillation
- discuss left atrial appendage closure as an option for stroke prevention in atrial fibrillation

CME accreditation and credit designation

William Beaumont Hospital is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

William Beaumont Hospital designates this live activity for a maximum of 3.5 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)[™]. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

Non-physician professionals should check with their individual credentialing bodies to confirm that participation in this CME activity will be approved for credit. CME credits can be used to meet the continuing education requirements needed for Michigan physician assistant and nursing relicensure without limitation.

Disclosure

All planning committee members and speakers have been asked to disclose any significant relationships they may have with commercial companies within the past 12 months that are relevant to their presentation. The presence or absence of relationships as well as off-label discussion of products will be disclosed at the time of the conference.

Acknowledgment

This conference will be partially supported by educational grants and display fees from commercial supporters.
