

Colleen T. Fogarty, MD, MSc.

Colleen T. Fogarty, MD, MSc, FAAFP, is the William Rocktaschel Professor and Chair of the Department of Family Medicine at the University of Rochester Department of Family Medicine. She earned her MD degree at the University of Connecticut School of Medicine and completed her Family Medicine Residency at the Highland Hospital/University of Rochester Medical Center where she also served as fourth year Chief Resident. Dr Fogarty has additional training in Family Systems from the University of Rochester and she earned a Master of Science in Epidemiology and Biostatistics from the Boston University School of Public Health.

Her clinical practices have included rural and urban Federally Qualified Community Health Centers, and her current practice is at Highland Family Medicine Center, a busy and diverse residency training practice, where she sees patients across the lifespan, many of whom have seen her since 2004.

Dr. Fogarty is an active scholar and creative and empiric work. She is considered an expert in writing 55-word stories and using them as an educational tool for self-reflection. Her 55-word stories, poetry, and narrative essays in several journals, including Family Medicine, Health Affairs, Pulse Magazine, Medical Humanities, the Journal of Family Practice, and Families, Systems, and Health; She has received creative writing awards from the University of Rochester Cluster on Human Values in Healthcare and the Family Medicine Education Consortium.

Her empiric scholarship includes work in primary care identification and management of mental health conditions, intimate partner violence, patient centered communication, and sexual harassment in Family Medicine. Her empiric publications have appeared in Family Medicine, Preventive Medicine, The Clinical Teacher, and other journals. She was past editor (with Larry Mauksch) of the journal, Families, Systems, and Health and past assistant editor for Family Medicine.